SORRY! JUST started the recording...

[Yesterday 2:14 PM] Ann Ford (Guest)

Does OHA plan to review the SUD providers assessments yearly? What about changes to the assessment, do you want to see those as well? What is the OHA timeline for approving those? And what do SUD providers do while waiting for the approval?

[Yesterday 2:22 PM] Barbara Heath
Regarding LOA for each level of care. Does OHA have any concern about the additional administrative burden being placed on SUD providers during a pandemic, and during a workforce shortage? Is this an OHA requirement?

[Yesterday 2:22 PM] Brianna Boice
How soon will agencies be able to provide OHA with current tools for assessment to see whether or not they meet new rules? Will that deadline be before the deadline to apply for financial assistance for the ASAM software to allow for programs to decide whether or not we'd like to pursue that option?

Are all your compliance specialists going to be trained on a specific standard for ASAM assessments so that we are all being held to the same interpretation?

[Yesterday 2:29 PM] Alison Noice (Guest)

An additional step of getting our internal assessment approved seems unnecessary. We're expected to comply with rules--you can evaluate our ability to do that when we are certified/audited

I think Alison makes a really good point. There is ample opportunity to review our assessments and other docs when we go through the COA reviews.

like 3

[Yesterday 2:31 PM] Jill Archer

And shouldn't it just be reviewed every three years to LOA renewal?

[Yesterday 2:31 PM] Heather Jefferis OCBH she/her (Guest)

does it have too?

[Yesterday 2:32 PM] Amy Baker

I agree with Alison and Jill Archer as part of our COA. Also, OHA has so many different software and data reporting systems, it's become very overwhelming.

like 1

[Yesterday 2:34 PM] Alison Noice (Guest)

I understand the value of OHA demonstrating the existence of a full continuum.

However, the level of detail added to the rules at each LOC seems onerous. It seems these rules can be written to assure alignment with the ASAM LOC criteria without being so prescriptive

like 2

[Yesterday 2:34 PM] Ann Ford (Guest)

How did OHA determine that the only way to show compliance to this is through various LOC?

[Yesterday 2:34 PM] Dannielle Brown (she/her) (Guest)

Requiring that level of detail is going to create admin burden for providers and barriers for community members to access care if they have to switch LOC every time they need a different outpatient service.

Current rule says (4) For substance use disorder services, each assessment shall be consistent with the dimensions described in the ASAM PPC and shall document a diagnosis and level of care determination consistent with the DSM and ASAM PPC. Can you explain how this new requirement is different?

[Yesterday 2:41 PM] Heather Surgeon

For OTP patients, there is often an internal model that allows patients to work toward a maintenance status where they come in once per month, as these patients are often in treatment for years. According to ASAM, OTP patients will all be at Level 1.0 and need to continue a higher frequency attendance. Will they be expected to maintain this level of attendance indefinitely or will there be an option to sign a Lower Level of Care Agreement?

[Yesterday 2:41 PM] Lori Barron

Who is the other Manager, Cissie?

[Yesterday 2:45 PM] Amy Baker

The documentation and assessment process has never been the downfall of the SUD delivery system. It's been the chronic undervaluing and underfunding of the SUD services. Perfecting documentation is not going to improve the system. There will be so many exceptions to every rule based on client need, availability of service, preference and fluidity of client presentation that we'll spend more time explaining than serving.

Could you help me understand how/why the RN requirements Under 415-50 -0165 (1-12 requires an LPN and 13-24 requires an RN plus LPN) are more stringent than ASAM on page 139? ASAM uses language RN or other licensed nurse. We have a nursing shortage and will not be able to meet the standard

So this again sounds like a quality of care issue which I will say again won't be solved through increased regulation

[Yesterday 2:52 PM] Ann Ford (Guest)
Can we move to a training and TA model? That is more effective in really getting to change and better care

[Yesterday 2:52 PM] Heather Jefferis OCBH she/her (Guest)
I would caution against any time based requirements due to parity.

I think it is important to leave room for clinical judgment and allow some flexibility re:
linkages between levels of care, exceptions to admission criteria and LOC placement.
Thanks

Some of the MMW requirements are sounding more like Residential Treatment rather than more of medical facility. Will these still be reviewed and possibly separated out a little.
