I. PURPOSE:

This policy provides guidelines for OYA staff when supporting participation and addressing issues related to youth religious practices while in community substitute care.

II. POLICY DEFINITIONS:

Religious practice: Any exercise of religion, whether or not such exercise is compelled by, or central to, a system of religious belief. It includes access to religious publications, religious symbols, congregate worship/religious services, religious study classes and ceremonies, and adherence to dietary requirements.

Substitute care: An out-of-home placement in the community for an adjudicated youth that provides 24-hour-a-day care and treatment, including adjudicated youth foster homes, residential treatment facilities, and transitional housing programs.

II. POLICY:

OYA has identified diversity, equity, and inclusion as an agency priority and initiative, with a goal to build a respectful, diverse, equitable and inclusive environment for youth and staff that is free from harassment, discrimination and bias. Data shows youth of color and LGBTQ+ youth are disproportionately represented in the juvenile justice system. While OYA is only one part of that system, we play a critical role in addressing the historical and systemic inequities it perpetuates. A youth's expression and practice of religious beliefs is an important part of honoring diversity. OYA requires substitute care providers to support and respect a youth's religious beliefs and practices.

Federal laws allow all people to hold individual religious beliefs. Youth in OYA substitute care placements maintain this same right. OYA recognizes that cultural competence and diversity also includes respecting and valuing the youth's spiritual and religious beliefs. Youth are not required to participate in religious practices or rituals.

In some situations, federal laws allow states to limit a youth's expression of religious beliefs through religious practice or rituals. While OYA makes every reasonable effort to allow youth the right of religious practice, the agency may restrict religious actions or rituals when:

- There is a compelling interest to do so, including, but not limited to, legitimate security and operational considerations such as safety, health and order; rehabilitation or treatment-related issues; or limitations of resources; and
- The imposed limitation is the least restrictive means of addressing the compelling interest.

IV. GENERAL STANDARDS:

A. OYA contracted residential treatment programs.

1. Contracts between OYA and each residential treatment program must specify that programs will develop written procedures to implement specific OYA policies, including OYA policy III-D-8.0 Religious Practices in Substitute Care Placements.
2. OYA staff who observe or receive reports of alleged actions or practices by residential treatment programs or their staff that are in conflict with OYA policy III-D-8.0 must inform the Community Resources manager, or designee, of the alleged action or practice.

B. Youth in OYA substitute care

1. OYA staff must be aware of youth rights to practice the religion of their choice while in substitute care and to have reasonable access to religious activities. Religious activities may include, but are not limited to:
 - a) Religious classes (lectures, instruction, discussion);
 - b) Religious forums;
 - c) Prayer groups;

- d) Religious choirs, ensembles and singing groups;
 - e) Self-study or group studies;
 - f) Religious group counseling;
 - g) Spiritual maturity groups;
 - h) Ceremonies;
 - i) Instruction in doctrines, rituals and ideals of various religious faiths; access to religious publications;
 - j) Provision of religious diets;
 - k) Wearing or carrying a religious emblem, medal, medallion or other religious item;
 - l) Religious dress and grooming practices which may include wearing religious clothing or adhering to shaving or hair length observances; and
 - m) Celebration of rituals necessary to meet the requirements of a given faith. Whenever possible, youth work assignments and schedules must accommodate religious practice that requires abstinence from work on certain holidays. Such accommodation must not penalize the youth.
2. Staff who observe or receive reports of alleged actions or practices by a substitute care provider that are in conflict with this policy must inform the residential community resource manager, foster care manager, or designee.
 3. Staff must refer a youth who desires to participate in a religious activity that is not currently available within the community where the youth is placed to the youth's JPPO.

The youth's JPPO must facilitate the youth's request for a reasonable accommodation to access religious activities or materials by helping the youth complete a written request with the following information:

- a) The name of the religion or belief; and
- b) The title and brief description of religious activity requested, including:
 - (1) The significance of the activity in the practice of the religion;
 - (2) How often or under what circumstances the religious activity will be held in the community;

- (3) Minimum time and any physical requirements within which the religious activity may take place;
 - (4) Any materials that are required for the religious activity and their purpose or use, including a list of any items associated with the religious activity that the youth would retain, if any;
 - (5) The title (if any), function, and eligibility requirements for participants in the activity; and
 - (6) The name, address and phone number of a recognized religious representative who can verify the above information.
4. The JPPO and residential community resource manager or foster care manager must review the request and consider:
 - a) The effects of the request on the safety and security of persons and order of the substitute care placement;
 - b) Available resources to provide the activity;
 - c) Alternative means of meeting the request; and
 - d) Other issues specific to the request.
5. The residential community resource manager or foster care manager must provide a written response. A copy must be sent to the youth, JPPO, and field supervisor.
6. A youth may appeal a response result by filing a grievance according to OYA policy III-B-4.0 Youth Rights and Grievances.
 - a) If there is a conflict between a request for a religious practice and the substitute care provider's interest, the matter will be resolved by OYA in consultation with the affected parties. When necessary, OYA will consult with appropriate religious representatives and other authorities as needed to clarify issues.
 - b) The decision of the OYA director is final.
